

THE SKY IS THE LIMIT FOR AMBITIOUS VALLEY PHOTOGRAPHERS, BRINGING DEPTH, VISION AND QUALITY

~High Res Media Photographers Offer Valley Clients New Ways to Capture Memorable and Lasting Shots~

Phoenix, AZ – Dec. 1, 2008 – High Res Media, LLC is taking photography to extremes. Offering more than the average photography studio, owners Kristopher Shane and Anthony Benton create lasting shots for everything from portrait, wedding and model photography to digital still photography, elevation photography, business profile photography and now video production.

Today Orca Communications Unlimited announces High Res Media, LLC as part of the Exceptional Authors & Experts Shared Spotlight campaign.

Elevate to a higher perspective and capture amazing views and architectural layouts with Elevation Photography. This unique vantage point, from up to 70 feet or seven stories high, in the air can capture shots unlike anything. Elevation photography is perfect for custom home sites, hotels, resorts, country clubs, golf courses, residential and commercial real estate and sporting events.

It all began when Krisopher Shane noticed realtors were standing on ladders or vehicles to get quality angle photos of their properties. Shane and his friend Anthony Benton decided to build a 50 foot telescoping mast and attach a camera to the top, allowing for amazing aerial views and Low Altitude Aerial Photography was born. They expanded their business as aerial photography progressed into twilight photography. At that point requests for event photography came rolling in.

Jason Roehner, Mike Kinsey and Geoff Clymer are the talented and dedicated photographers that make High Res Media stand apart from other photographers. This team offers clients professional and artistic visions along with a worry-free experience. Their work has been featured in local and national newspapers and magazines including, Wall Street Journal, Arizona Republic, 944, Luxury Homes Magazine, Desert Living, Phoenix Home & Garden, Ride BMX and countless websites.
